Teaching Fellow in Animation

Role Title: Teaching Fellow in Animation

Reports To: Director of Creative Technology, Journalism, Politics and Contemporary History

Overview

The University of Salford takes pride in its local roots, while also being recognized for its excellence in teaching, research and enterprise activity regionally, nationally and internationally. We sit at the heart of the Northern Powerhouse and actively engage with stakeholders across the region and beyond to embed our industry collaboration activity in the curriculum, ensuring our students receive the best possible experience and are fit for their future after graduation.

The School of Arts, Media and Creative Technology is a leading centre for practice-based education in the creative disciplines. Through significant investment in our staff and facilities, we are strengthening our position as a centre of excellence for socially engaged teaching practice and research whose graduates are sought after as content creators and for the innovative application of creative technology, both in the creative industries and across wider sectors of the economy. We have a clear vision to become a top quartile provider of practice-based education in the creative industries, continuing to advance our standing as a destination of choice for students in the UK and internationally.

Our £55 million New Adelphi flagship building offers top-quality specialist equipment and facilities to suit all creative requirements. We are also the only UK university to have a campus at MediaCityUK, an international media hub next to prestigious media organisations such as the BBC, ITV, and Dock10, with industry-standard facilities that offer a professional environment for our staff and students. The School's activities are organised into four Directorates, currently totalling around 4,800 students: Art and Design; Creative Technology, Journalism, Politics and Contemporary History; Film and Broadcast Media; and Performance, Music, English and Dance.

We are delighted that you are interested in finding out more about our current vacancy for the role of Teaching Fellow in Animation in the School of Arts, Media and Creative Technology.

BA (Hons) Animation at Salford is an exciting practice-based programme that fuses craft and theory, to produce engaged and motivated students who can work collaboratively across a range of related media disciplines.

Our degrees focus on creativity in practice, research and project work with industry and fosters collaboration between different subject disciplines.

We are based in a cutting-edge digital facility, at the heart of MediaCityUK surrounded by industry leaders and major contributors to high end animation production. The degree has access to a range of impressive industry level facilities for all stages of production. Visiting industry speakers are integral to the programme and ensure our programme stays ahead of industry practices and technologies.

Our practitioner academics engage students work in external opportunities in order to prepare graduates for work and a career in industry.

This is a full-time, permanent position and the starting salary is £35,333 per annum.

We are committed to promoting a truly diverse and inclusive community, a place where we can all be ourselves and succeed on merit. We offer a range of family friendly, inclusive employment policies, flexible and agile working arrangements, staff engagement forums, campus facilities and services to support staff from different backgrounds. Our student population is already incredibly diverse and we want to ensure that this is reflected across our colleague profile as well. We particularly encourage applications from women and individuals from minority ethnic backgrounds, who are currently under-represented within these areas. We also operate a guaranteed interview scheme for job applicants who declare they have a disability and meet the essential criteria of the job they are applying for.

There is a varied benefits package available through 'My Salford' where you can tailor your benefits to suit your own lifestyle – everything from additional annual leave, savings on High Street shopping, travel discounts as well as health and wellbeing support. However you identify, whatever your pathway has been to get here, come and join us at the University of Salford where we are all proud to belong!

Within your cover letter/personal statement, please address how you meet the criteria listed in the person specification below. Please note it is anticipated that interviews will take place within several weeks of the closure of this advertisement.

Informal enquires about this role can be made to: Dr Juan Hiriart, Subject Group Head for Creative Technology (j.f.v.hiriart@salford.ac.uk).
